

ZEDRIC TEAGUE BIO

Zedric Teague is a talented saxophonist originally from Huntsville, Alabama, now proudly residing in Loudoun County, Virginia. His music embodies a captivating blend of jazz, gospel, and contemporary influences, enchanting audiences with his soulful and expressive performances.

Growing up in Huntsville, Zedric developed a deep appreciation for music's power to connect and inspire. Since relocating to Loudoun County, he has become an integral part of the local music scene, performing at various venues and events throughout the area. His dynamic style and ability to convey emotion through his saxophone have made him a sought-after performer in the region.

Zedric is passionate about sharing his love for music both on stage and within the community. He often collaborates with fellow musicians and participates in initiatives that promote music education and appreciation. His commitment to his craft and community involvement have solidified his reputation as a respected artist and valuable contributor to the cultural landscape of Loudoun County.

Whether he's performing in an intimate jazz club or at a community festival, Zedric Teague's music resonates deeply with listeners, leaving a lasting impression through his heartfelt melodies and engaging stage presence.